Response to Amendment

Amendment, filed on 05 October 2006 has been considered.

Claims 1-2 are amended.

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2 & 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kamakura et al. (US 5760423).

Regarding claims 1-2, Kamakura et al. disclose an EL display device (light emitting device, Fig 5) comprising a first electrode (31); a functional layer including a luminescent layer (24-28) and a transparent second electrode (2,3) which are laminated on a substrate (23) in that order (lines 20-35 of column 3), the second electrode (Ni layer and NiO layer) varying in the film thickness direction, and the oxygen concentration in the vicinity of an interface between the second electrode and the function layer being lower than an average oxygen concentration in the second layer (oxygen concentration in metal layer 2 is very negligible compared to oxygen rich layer NiO, lines 5-14 of column 5 & lines 61-64 of column 6).

Further examiner notes that the recitation of "the second electrode formed by varying oxygen concentration while forming the second electrode" is drawn to a process of manufacturing which is incidental to the claimed apparatus.

Even though product by process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product. It is well established that a claimed apparatus cannot be distinguished over the prior art structure by a process limitation. Consequently, absent a showing of an unobvious difference between the claimed product and the prior art, the subject process limitation is not afforded patentable weight (see MPEP 2113).

Regarding claim 7, Kamakura et al. disclose electronic equipment comprising EL of claim 1 (light emitting semiconductor device).

Regarding claim 8, Kamakura et al. disclose that the lower portion of the second electrode (Ni metal layer) having a substantially zero oxygen concentration.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 05 October 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's amendment of process limitations in a device claim does not distinguish the product having all the structural limitations as presented in rejection of claim 1 over the prior art of Kamakura et al.

Argument presented for rejection of claims over the prior art of Miki et al. is found to be persuasive. Rejections of claims over the prior art of Miki et al. have been withdrawn.

However, Miki et al. teaches varying concentration of oxygen to form an electrode having a metal layer, which substantially contains zero concentration of oxygen and on top a transparent metal oxide layer.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
